From the Principal

This week is a significant one in any secondary school, as we farewell the leaders of the student body, our Year 12 students.

Many of you probably feel that thirteen years of schooling has passed very quickly, particularly those of you who are parents of our seniors. And while 2003 seems very recent to me, the world was very different when you marched into kinder, proud of your uniform and trying to remember not to eat everything at “little lunch”. You couldn’t buy an iPad or an iPhone – indeed, Time magazine’s invention of the year was the iTunes store. Facebook and Twitter were three years away, Instagram wouldn’t appear until you were in Year 7, and no-one had heard of One Direction.

You enter a world that holds a great deal of promise, and the certainty that change is a constant. Hopefully you have developed as a lifelong learner, as your success will depend upon that capacity to inquire, to think creatively, and to solve problems.

The whole school community wishes you the very best for the Higher School Certificate and beyond. You have conducted yourselves with dignity and with respect for others, and we are all very proud of you. One area in which you have given back to our community is through your gift to the school, a refurbished senior study room. The effort you put into collecting money, planning, purchasing and assembling is appreciated, particularly by the Year 11 students who will reap the rewards.

Some other members of Killara High School are also leaving us.

Mr Richard Williams has taught English at Killara for six years. During this time he has made a significant contribution to the success and wellbeing of many students, through his expert teaching of English and as a caring and committed Year Adviser to the current Year 10 cohort. Additionally, Mr Williams has served as Head Teacher English in a relieving capacity with distinction. Although we are sad to see him go, we are delighted that his talents have been recognised through merit selection to the position of Head Teacher English at Pennant Hills High School.

Mr Dale Jones, Science teacher, ends his career in teaching on Friday. Mr Jones is retiring from the Department of Education following many years of dedicated service to the young people of NSW. Appointed to Killara High School in 1999, Mr Jones has demonstrated his commitment to students as a Year Adviser, and as a teacher of junior Science and Physics. We wish Mr Jones a long, healthy and happy retirement.

Mrs Kate Gilbert, School Administrative Officer, has gained a promotion through merit to the position of School Administrative Manager at Gordon East Public School. While we are sorry to lose Mrs Gilbert, at least she is keeping it within the “KSP family”. Mrs Gilbert has been an invaluable member of the school’s finance team, helping us implement the LMBR system and the attendant new financial management systems. She has also efficiently chaired our Work Health Safety team, and will be very much missed by the school community.

Mr Guy Hudson has taught PDHPE in a temporary capacity at Killara since 2010. He and his family are relocating to the mid north coast, so he is leaving us this week. Mr Hudson is a skilled teacher and has been able to help students achieve their personal and academic goals. He has also been an expert coach to the school’s rugby teams, and has been instrumental in building success in this area. With Mr Le Rougetel, Mr Hudson inaugurated the “School of Origin” match with St Ives, an enormously popular event.

Ms Sharan Sohal joined the HSIE Green faculty in 2013 on a temporary basis. She has brought flexibility, professionalism and energy to the teaching of a range of subjects during her time at Killara. Most recently, she has supported Year 12 students of Society and Culture. Ms Sohal is taking up a position at Turramurra High School, one of our North Shore 5 partners, and we wish her well.

I wish all members of the school community a safe and happy vacation.

Year 8 GATE Virtual Excursion

Space Centre Houston – NASA museum

On Thursday 3 September the Year 8 Gifted and Talented Education (GATE) class participated in a virtual excursion with the Space Centre in Houston. Students spent a very enjoyable hour learning about how astronauts live in space, the day-to-day experiences of eating, drinking and exercising, as well as the challenges of sleeping in a minimal-gravity environment. The presentation offered the chance to see model living quarters of a spaceship and the opportunity to participate in an activity that mimicked the effects of minimal-gravity. Our presenter Steve also answered several questions from the class, including how long it takes to acclimatise to Earth’s gravity after being in space and how long astronauts sleep each day.

According to Year 8, some of the most interesting information that came from the excursion was:

“I really liked the idea of squeezing water out of the bottle and it was just a bubble!” – Lauren and Maddy

“I learnt that you can’t have chips in space…I think I would die.”

“The idea of living in space sounded really hard and the lifestyle looked interesting because they had a different way of eating and managing hygiene.” – Cassie

“The water they use is recycled from their urine and it comes in special containers with a funnel-closure.” – Thirza

It was a really fun way to spend a morning and provided valuable insight into the experiences of astronauts. The pictures show volunteers from our class being instructed by Steve in the minimal-gravity experiment.

Grade Rugby Report

The Killara High School rugby boys maintained their three year winning streak by defeating Galston in the grand final this year. We were unbeaten all season and had several wins where we won by 25+ points. The younger boys stepped up in many games to help us clinch victories with good performances throughout the season, from Robby Hansen, Myles Elston, Harry Cannell, Jayden Burgess, Michael Singin and Jack Donohoe. The older boys took charge from the start of the season with Jake Hind leading the forwards and Tom Wilks leading the backs. The squad had an abundance of pace, power and experience with players like Ben Mackay, Tom He, Golf Smithvej and Josh Marsh.

The whole season was leading up to the big Grand Final. We were playing against Galston, a very strong team.

We had a shaky start, going one try down within the first three minutes. We slowly started to progress throughout the first half but went into half time down 15-10. With a strong half-time talk, we came out firing in the second half and took control to win 40-20 with tries from Tyler Baltussen, Tom Wilks, Jayden Burgess, Jake Hind, and Robby Hansen.

As captain of the grade team this year, I would like to thank all the players and coaching staff for all time and effort they have put in to the training sessions, and also their hard work and dedication during the matches. To the junior boys coming through, let's make it 4 years in a row next year.

Open Boys Rugby – Waratah Cup

On 30 July the Killara High School 1st XV Rugby Union team went to Redfield College in Dural where we competed in two tough rugby games in the Waratah Cup competition. The boys had been training for months for this day. The 7:30am training sessions were not the boys’ favourite thing to do but the hard work payed off in our results when we beat Narara Valley High School in a physical and aggressive game of rugby, 15 – 0.

Our next match would be our biggest test yet. We faced against well-drilled, Redfield College. Redfield were a strong team and very well structured but the boys put in a great effort; not one of Redfield’s tries went through the middle of our defence. The Killara boys were too strong. We ended up losing in a tight match 20 – 7. The result didn’t matter because the boys played hard. It showed the great passion the boys have for our school and the strong mateship they have formed with each other, which is something really great that Killara offers us. Redfield College have subsequently moved through to the state finals in the coming weeks.

Playing for Killara High in rugby has been some of the best experiences that I’ve had at this school. The school spirit that rugby brings is something that you can’t describe, bringing us all together in mateship. Now that I’m leaving this school I look back and see that we have had a pretty good run, winning three premierships in a row. Girls’ rugby has also kick

On behalf of Killara rugby a big thanks to all those coaches, Mr Hudson, Mr Le Rougetel, Mr Simpson, Mr Francis and others who gave up their own time over the years to coach us and take us to games. A little message for the new generation of young rugby players: Good luck, enjoy it, and get to 7:30am training, because the only limitations you have are the ones that you put on yourself. To keep Killara successful in rugby, you need to show dedication, because success only comes to those who want it the most!

CHS Athletics Carnival

On the 3 - 5 September, sixteen Killara High School students represented the Sydney North team at the CHS Athletics Carnival. Our students demonstrated outstanding athleticism, as they competed with the top athletes in New South Wales. Brianna Gibson placed Second in Javelin (16 years), and Ethan Burgess placed Second in High Jump (13 years). Ben Mackay demonstrated exceptional skill, placing First in the 100m, 400m, 400m Hurdles and the 4x400m, as well as Second in the 200m (17 years).

This is an outstanding achievement, for which we are all very proud. This event brings Killara’s successful athletics season to a close. Thanks must go to all students and parents who attended each event. We look forward to next year with anticipation.

Year 9 at the Youth Review Forum

Three Year 9 students represented our school at a recent Youth Review Forum at Roseville College, held on Monday 31 August 2015. They were Henry Bolt, Smruti Mandadi and James Fantham. The students discussed the six books that were nominated in the 2015 Children’s Book Council of Australia in the category for Book of the Year for Older Readers. They were:

The Protected by Claire Zorn
Intruder by Christine Bongers
Are You Seeing me? by Darren Groth
The Adventures of Cinnamon Girl by Melissa Keil
Nona & Me by Clare Atkins
The Minnow by Diane Sweeney

The panel discussion was chaired by Paul MacDonald from The Children's Bookshop at Beecroft. Other schools that were represented were Roseville College, Shore and Ravenswood.

Interschool Chess Competition

Three Killara High School chess teams have completed the metropolitan secondary schools competition that ran during the second term. Around 90 schools entered 300 teams and the competition was split into groups of teams in the same area that play each other.

At the junior level (Years 7 and 8) we had two teams:

- Junior A team: Tim Fikh (Year 7), Yash Agrawal (Year 8), Eric Chen (Year 8) and Reza Sedighi (Year 8); Tim won all of his games and the team came second in their division; they are shown right-to-left in the photo.

- Junior B team: Dion Aryana, Saarthak Sinha, Carolyn Niknafs and Ji Min Shin – all in Year 7; Dion scored well; they are shown right-to-left in the photo with Carolyn absent.

At the intermediate level (Years 9 and 10) we had one team:

- Benjamin Seeto, Michael Boreham, Matthew Tee, Vincent Ngai and Johnny Benstead (reserve) - all in Year 10; Benjamin scored well, and the team finished fourth in their division. The photo below shows Benjamin, Michael, Johnny and Matthew.

Thanks to all of the players and the parents who drove them.

MindMatters

Many thanks to the school community for your participation in the recent MindMatters Family Survey. We had 202 families complete the survey and the feedback provided will be the focus of the school's professional learning in Week 2 next term. We appreciate that like all surveys, there are limitations, and your comments about not enough space to write your thoughts down was noted. Please feel free to email me directly at carla.marchesin@det.nsw.edu.au with your comments.

The students have also completed their surveys (over 1300) and next term, we will be engaged in examining this data, together with data gathered from the Family and Staff surveys.

We will share the survey data with our families and students during the term and ensure it is available to you through the school's website and face book page. I will also present the surveys to the P&C during the term, which you are welcome to attend.

As we work through the data in Term 4, we will share our ideas, seek your feedback and develop goals and strategies to achieve improved wellbeing and resilience amongst our students.

I have included an article for your reading entitled, "Mental health and wellbeing in adolescence: an overview" which comes from the Australian Parenting website.

Each issue of our newsletter from now on will have a specific article or some information directly related to adolescent development and wellbeing for your information. Please let me know of an area you would like to see highlighted in a future newsletter.

Mental health and wellbeing in adolescence: an overview

Mental health is an essential part of wellbeing, and there's a lot you can do to promote mental health for your child. It also helps to know what to do if you think your child has a mental health problem.

What is mental health?
Mental health is a way of describing social and emotional wellbeing. Good mental health is central to your child's healthy development. It is associated with:
- feeling happy and positive about yourself and enjoying life
- healthy relationships with family and friends
- participation in physical activity and eating a healthy diet
- the ability to relax and to get a good night's sleep
- community participation and belonging.

We need good mental health to build strong relationships, adapt to change and deal with life's challenges.

It's thought that adolescence is an especially risky period for mental health problems. On top of environment and genes, teenagers go through many changes and challenges in a short period of time. This all happens while teenage brains are still maturing.

Promoting good mental health in adolescence
Studies show a strong link between the quality of parent–teenager relationships and young people's mental health. Healthy family relationships might reduce the chances of your child experiencing mental health problems.

Your support can have a direct and positive impact on your child's mental health. Here are some ideas to promote your child's mental health and wellbeing:
- Show love, affection and care for your child.
- Show that you're interested in what is happening in your child's life. Praise his good points and achievements, and value his ideas.
- Enjoy spending time together one-on-one with your child, and also as a family.
- Be there for your child. Encourage your child to talk about feelings with you. It's important for your child to feel she doesn't have to go through things on her own, and that you can work together to find solutions to problems.
- Deal with problems as they arise, rather than letting them build up.
- Talk to family members, friends, other parents or teachers if you have any concerns. If you feel you need more help, speak to your GP or another health professional.

Physical health is related to mental health. To help your child stay emotionally and physically healthy, encourage your child to do the following:
- Keep active – physical fitness will help your child stay healthy, have more energy, feel confident, manage stress and sleep well.
- Develop and maintain healthy eating habits.
- Get lots of regular sleep. Quality sleep will help your child to manage a busy life, stress and responsibilities. For more information, you can read our article on sleep for children 12-15 years.
- Avoid drugs and alcohol.

Alcohol and drugs
As children go through adolescence, they might experiment with alcohol and drugs. These are a major risk factors for the development of mental health problems in some young people. These substances can also make existing problems worse. You should encourage your child to avoid drugs, and be careful not to provide opportunities for him to drink alcohol.

Alcohol and drug use might also alert you to a possible mental health problem for your child. If you know your child is using drugs or alcohol and you're worried, talk with your child. Also consider speaking to a health professional or counsellor.
Signs your child might need help
It’s normal for children and teenagers to sometimes have low moods, poor motivation and trouble with sleeping. It’s not always the sign of a mental health problem. But if you do notice any of the following signs and they persist for more than a few weeks, it’s important to talk with your child. The next step is to get professional help.

For children younger than 11 years, warning signs might include:
- seeming sad or unhappy much of the time
- a drop in school performance
- ongoing worries or fears
- problems fitting in at school or getting along with other children
- aggressive or consistently disobedient behaviour, or repeated temper tantrums
- sleep problems, including nightmares.

For children 11 years and older, watch out for your child:
- seeming down, feeling things are hopeless, being tearful or lacking motivation
- having trouble coping with everyday activities
- showing sudden changes in behaviour, often for no obvious reason
- having trouble eating or sleeping
- dropping school performance, or suddenly refusing to go to school
- avoiding friends or social contact
- making comments about physical pain (for example, headache, tummy ache or backache)
- being aggressive or antisocial – for example, missing school or stealing
- being very anxious about weight or physical appearance, weight loss, or failing to gain weight as she grows.

If your child tells you he is having persistent thoughts about hurting himself or that he wants to die, seek urgent professional help. Lifeline (13 11 14) provides a 24-hour phone counselling service. You can also call 000 or go straight to a hospital emergency department.

Talking with your child about mental health
If you’re concerned about your child’s mental health, start by talking to your child. This might feel uncomfortable – you might even be waiting for the problem to go away. But talking to your child about how she’s feeling shows her she’s not alone and that you care. Also, your child will need your help to access professional support.

Here are some ideas to encourage your child to talk to you about how he’s feeling:
- Say that even adults have problems they can’t sort out on their own. Point out that it’s easier to get help when you have someone else’s support.
- Acknowledge that opening up about personal thoughts and feelings can be scary.
- Tell your child that talking about a problem can often help put things into perspective and make feelings clearer. Someone with more or different experience – like an adult – might be able to suggest options your child hasn’t considered.
- Suggest some other people your child could talk to if she doesn’t want to talk to you – for example, aunts or uncles, close family friends, a trusted sports coach or religious leader, or your GP. You could also suggest a confidential telephone counselling service for young people such as Kids Helpline (1800 55 1800) or visiting Kids Helpline.
- Let your child know that talking with a GP is confidential. The GP can’t tell anyone else, unless the GP is worried about your child’s or someone else’s safety.
- Emphasise that your child isn’t alone. You’ll be there whenever he’s ready to talk.

If you raise your concerns with your child, she might refuse any help or deny there’s anything wrong. Many young people won’t seek help themselves. So you might need to say that you’re worried about her and you’ll be trying to get professional advice. It’s a good idea to encourage your child to come with you. If she won’t, you might need to go on your own.

If you’re not sure what to do, a GP or school counsellor is a good place to start.

Poor mental health is no one’s fault, and no one is to blame.

Getting help for your child
Mental health problems are unlikely to get better on their own, so you need to get professional help as soon as possible. Poor mental health or unmanaged mental health problems can affect your child’s quality of life, physical health, schoolwork, relationships and development – social, physical, educational and vocational.

There are many professional support options, including:

- your GP
- school counsellors
- psychologists and counsellors
- your local community health centre
- local mental health services.

You might also find support at:

- our mental health links and resources page
- the youthbeyondblue get help page
- Parentline (1800 30 1300) or the Parentline web counselling page.

If you’re unsure where to go, your GP will be able to guide you to the most appropriate services for your family.

Mental disorders

If your child's mental health problems are interfering significantly with his life, a qualified professional might diagnose a mental disorder.

You can read more about how to recognise adolescent mental health problems and disorders and seek help in the following articles:

- Depression in adolescence
- Anxiety in adolescence
- Anxiety disorders in adolescence.

Helping your child with a diagnosed mental disorder

Once you’ve sought professional medical help for your child, many things can show your child you are there for her.

Your child’s mental health management strategy will depend on his specific needs. But in general, the most important thing you can do is show through your words and actions that you accept and love your child, whatever he’s feeling*:

- Listen when your child is ready to talk. Listen without offering opinions or solutions straight away. Be available, but don’t push her to talk if she’s not ready.
- Let your child know that it's OK to feel whatever he’s feeling. Even if you don’t understand why something is upsetting him, acknowledge that his feelings are real and valid.
- Encourage your child to talk to someone that she trusts. If it helps, set up times and places for your child to talk to this person, and transport your child to the meetings if necessary.
- Praise your child for his achievements, however small.
- Reduce family conflict as much as possible.
- Speak with your child’s health professional about support options in your local area.
- Recognise when you need help. You can fully support your child only if you’re healthy and supported yourself.

NS5 Culinary Cook-off Competition

On 23 June 2015 twenty-two students from Killara High’s Stage 5 began the Inaugural NS5 Culinary Cook-off Competition. We were briefed beforehand, in which it had been outlined that we were to cook and present two dishes, a main meal and a dessert, to three judges. My partner, Emesha Reeves, and I were feeling our fair share of nerves, as this was the first time either of us had been put under the pressure of cooking in a contest and, to be honest, we were terrified.

As part of the competition each pair of Stage 5 contestants were allocated a Year 11 hospitality student to act as their mentor, giving them advice and ideas. The competition was a mystery box, meaning we were only given the ingredients we had to use on the day.

On the competition day, we arrived at the kitchen and we were given our mystery box. Inside there were around twenty ingredients, all of which we had to use in our dishes. We were given around three and a half hours to plan, prepare, cook and serve our plates of food. Once our time was up, we served our dishes to the judges and waited in nervous anticipation for their verdict.

In a very close competition, Emesha and I were amazed to gain First Place and Alina Xie and Pei-ying Tsai were runners-up. Therefore, all four of us continued to the next round.

Which brings me to Friday 28 August, only a few weeks ago. This was the date of the finale round of the competition. In this round we were competing against all of the winners from the North Shore 5 (Ku-ring-gai Creative Arts, St Ives, Chatswood, Turramurra and Killara High Schools) and the pressure was intense. If we were nervous before the last round, it was nothing compared to what we felt this time. We again faced the mystery box challenge, but this time there was only one mentor between two groups. Neither of us knew what to expect from the other teams as we had no idea what they had made before, but we knew that they were going to be tough competition.

All the dishes looked amazing and the techniques that the teams used were incredible. After the three and a half hours finished all the teams went into the classrooms for the tastings. This time there were three guest judges, the head of hospitality for the central coast Department of Education, the head chef at Spoon and Fork and the head chef from Knox Grammar.

Emesha and I just wanted to enjoy the competition and we weren't expecting to do fantastically. Needless to say we were beyond shocked when the judges read our names out as the winners.

We both enjoyed the competition lots and we were challenged to use our problem solving skills under pressure and time constraints. I would encourage people in Stage 5 next year to try it as you may surprise yourself with what you can do, we definitely did.

Thank you to all the Food Technology teachers for their encouragement and especially to Ms Mackenzie who organised the competition. It was a very valuable experience.

PERMISSION FORM TO ATTEND THE ISCF GROUP AT

Killara High School (called TAG) which meets on
Friday lunch time in D5

Scripture Union NSW is an organisation recognised by the Department of Education in their Religious Education Implementation Procedures as a coordinator of Christian Voluntary Lunchtime groups in NSW public schools. These groups, known as ISCF groups in secondary schools and SUPA clubs in primary schools, exist to give Christian students the opportunity to grow in their understanding of Christianity, and to allow other students who may be interested in knowing more about Christianity the chance to explore their questions in an informal setting.

Scripture Union NSW takes seriously the need for you as parents to be fully informed concerning the activities of these groups before granting permission for your child to attend.

WHO CAN ATTEND AN ISCF LUNCHTIME GROUP?
- Any high school student can attend an ISCF lunchtime group with parental permission
- Participation in the group is entirely voluntary which means that students are free to stay or leave if they wish

WHAT HAPPENS DURING GROUP MEETINGS?
- Christian teachings from the Bible are presented in a clear and age-appropriate manner *
- Students are provided with a safe forum for reflection, questions and discussion regarding this Christian worldview
- The beliefs and viewpoints of all students are respected

WHO RUNS THE GROUP?
- The school Principal gives permission for the group to operate
- Groups operate under the care and guidance of leaders who have applied to and been approved by Scripture Union NSW
- Leaders must comply with all relevant child protection policies and protocols

* A copy of Scripture Union's Aims, Beliefs and Working Principles is available upon request. Please contact Scripture Union NSW at schools@sunsw.org.au.

By completing and signing this form I am giving permission for my child to attend the Scripture Union ISCF group at their school.

PLAYHOUSE CREATURES

By April de Angelis
Directed by Patsy Templeton

Backstage at the King’s Theatre we enter the world of Nell Gwyn and her fellow actresses as they are first allowed to perform on stage. After years of Puritan rule, London society clamours to see women playing roles previously the domain of beardless youths. Follow the mixed fortunes of these women who struggle out of the gutter towards the stars.

A powerful human drama with great heart.
